WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—For the second successive day the forces of Gen. Douglas MacArthur have smashed back Japan's all out offensive on the Luzon front, the war department revealed today adding that the American forces have begun to carry the battle to the invaders by bombing Japanese posts in the Dutch East Indies. American bombing planes blasted a Japanese naval concentration in the area of Tarakan northeast of Borneo, a war department communiqué said. The war department explained that the foray was conducted in cooperation with forces of the Netherlands Indies and was designed to smash a Japanese landing operation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—While Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops awaited further assaults against their fortified positions in north Bataan, Washington military experts proclaimed today that only a lack of American-Filipino reinforcements has saved Japan from a humiliating defeat in its drive to complete conquest of the Philippines. Observers deplored the fact that MacArthur had so few men that he

CAIRO, Jan. 14.—Further progress by British mobile columns in the region south of El Agheila on the Libyan desert was announced by the middle eastern high command today. The new communiqué added that the British forces which captured the border town of Sollum in northwestern Egypt had sustained "just over 100 casualties" in reducing this axis stronghold. It also reported intensive bombardment of the axis forces in Halafya pass by British artillery, air and naval forces. "In spite of increased air action," the communiqué said, "our mobile columns made further satisfactory progress, increasing their pressure on the enemy rear guards covering the main body south of the Agheila area. The British motorized units pushed closer to El Agheila—possible scene of an axis 'last stand' in western Libya, while the axis forces trapped around Halafya pass awaited their doom. LaGuardia Will Resign One Job

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Civilian Defense Director F. H. LaGuardia today promised congress that before long he will resign either as mayor of New York or O.C.D. head, or perhaps both and join the army. "I get pretty tired at the end of the day," he told the house committee investigating defense migration. "Pretty soon I shall have to choose one of three alternatives—either give up my job as mayor and continue with O.C.D. if the president wants it—or give up the O.C.D. and go back to New York and mind my own business and criticize everything in Washington, or do what I did in the last war if I can make it."

HARRISBURG, Jan. 14.—The agreement on congressional reapportionment has removed the last obstacle to the calling of a special session of the legislature, said Gov. Arthur H. James, but there was still no indication today as to when the legislators would be reconvened. "I only know what I read in the papers," he commented. The governor, January 26 and February 2 have been mentioned as suitable dates. A special legislative committee has agreed to combine the 15th and 16th districts and eliminate one of Allegheny county's five districts, leaving one congressional post to be filled at large. The governor said this agreement was satisfactory to him provided it was put in writing and submitted to him. He has not received a formal report from the committee as yet, he stated.

Chinese Pound At Jap Invaders

Report 23,000 Japanese Bodies Counted On Hunan Battlefield
(International News Service)
CHUNGKING, Jan. 14.—Numerous battles raged on far-flung battlefields in China today as Chinese forces kept pounding the Jap invaders. An official Chinese announcement said 23,000 Japanese bodies had been counted on the northern Hunan province battlefield, where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's troops still were mopping up the Japs who were driven back from Changsha. Only 2,000 Japs were said to have escaped the Chinese encirclement trap and crossed the Milo river. At the same time, an official communiqué said, 3,000 Japanese troops west of the south China port of Canton attacked Chinese forces at the confluence of the North and West rivers. Fighting was reported continuing in this region. A military spokesman said that 10,000 Japanese soldiers were marching northward from Canton in three columns toward an unknown destination. An entire Jap division was reported cut off from avenues of retreat in Hunan province and threatened with annihilation. Field dispatches to Chungking related that Chinese forces were systematically mopping up small enemy detachments still left behind the south bank of the Milo river and that the Japs on the north bank were under vigorous Chinese attack. In Hunan province Chinese forces declared to have captured the outer wall of the city of Kwaiyang and to be assaulting the inner wall.

More Jap Transports Hit By Dutch Bombers

BATAVIA, Jan. 14.—Netherlands East Indies bombers scored new hits today on Japanese transports south of Nipponese-occupied Tarakan Island.

The new aerial successes were announced in a communiqué which told of a heavy new Dutch air offensive against Japanese forces now entrenched on Tarakan Island. It was indicated the Japs on the tiny oil-bearing island took a heavy pounding. The ships hit were part of a large fleet, consisting of six cruisers, six torpedo boats and 14 transports. Full extent of the damage inflicted was not disclosed immediately. At the same time it was announced that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, chief of the anti-Axis high command in the Pacific, has arrived in the Netherlands Indies to establish headquarters.

A new war communiqué said tonight that Dutch aircraft, launching a vigorous counter-offensive, bombed enemy occupied Tarakan and also a Japanese base in the southern Philippine Islands. In addition, the communiqué stated, Dutch troops went into action on the Sarawak border. (Sarawak is the British protectorate on the northwestern portion of Borneo Island which the Japs occupied earlier in the Far Eastern conflict.) Earlier, it had been reported that large-scale air attacks by Dutch and other anti-Axis bombers were under way against Jap warships and transport fleets following capture of tiny oil-bearing Tarakan Island by the Nipponese.

Large Force Of Jap Planes In Attack Upon Singapore Yesterday

By S. A. WYKES

SINGAPORE, Jan. 14.—Slashing R. A. F. raids on Port Swettenham 25 miles southwest of Nipponese-held Kuala Lumpur were announced today, signaling a thunderous British acknowledgement that the Japs have taken the strategic western Malayan port. Fires were reported kindled by the bombs dropped on Port Swettenham. The British raids were launched in retaliation for Jap air attacks that rocked Singapore yesterday and the day before.

It was announced officially that 70 Japanese fighters and bombers participated in yesterday's raids on Singapore. On Jap raider was destroyed and several others probably were shot down, it was stated. The communiqué said the Jap raiding force consisted of 50 heavy bombers and 20 naval fighters. Fifty-five killed. Fifty-five persons were killed and wounded. Damage was described as small.

Yugoslav Guerillas Battling Germans

It never had occurred to me just what our blessings are, that is I knew we had much more than people living far. But just like other folks I guess we thought them common place, for instance take the food we get, and when we offered grace it was perfunctory more or less but now it dawns on me, just how much more we get to eat than those across the sea. Japs Attempt Air Raid On Rangoon

Large Number Of Planes In Raid

Reports Indicate That Damage Done Was Not Extensive

ANTI-AIRCRAFT BARRAGE HURLED

BULLETIN
(International News Service)
RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 14.—Enemy planes dropped bombs north of Rangoon today and heavy anti-aircraft fire barraged the skies as the Japanese unleashed a new air raid on Rangoon.

The Japs repeatedly bombed an airfield north of the city but caused only negligible damage, authorities said.

Observers estimated that more than the usual number of Jap planes participated in the new attack. The attackers arrived 90 minutes after the alarm sounded.

A silvery moon shone. Rangoon, entrenched and sheltered, waited patiently for the attack to begin.

Crashing anti-aircraft fire from the eastern section of the city announced the arrival of the Japanese planes. The thunderous gunfire mingled with the drone of plane engines as the sky filled with bursting shells and "flaming onions."

Defenses In Action
After a brief interval ground defenses in the northern sector roared into action and scattered sounds of plane motors indicated the raiders had been disorganized by the barrage.

Later still the western batteries went into action. At one time the entire Burmese capital reverberated to the gunfire and occasional thuds of bombs to the north.

After the all-clear sounded at 6:30 a. m., Rangoon residents emerged sleep-eyed but smiling, realizing that while the raid was heavy the defenses and the ground shelters had proved more than a match for the Japs.

Considering the mixed nature of Rangoon's population, life went back to normal in the city with remarkable rapidity.

Even during the raid some normal activities continued. One news vendor dropped a newspaper into this correspondent's trench—and in the distance a baker could be heard crying his wares.

Destroy Oil Machinery
All latest reports stressed the destruction of oil installations that had been carried out on Tarakan Island by the little garrison of defenders before the Japs captured it. It appeared that it will be many months before the Japs can get a drop of oil from this newly-occupied spot of land.

(In Milbourne, air minister Drakesford announced Australian planes assisting the defense of the Netherlands East Indies had registered direct hits on three Jap warships—a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser and a destroyer. This attack was carried out off Menado on the northern tip of Celebes Island.)

Bitter fighting was reported still raging on the northern Minahassa Peninsula of Celebes Island. Fate of Menado itself was not clarified in announcements by authorities in Batavia.

(Tokyo claimed capture of Menado on Monday.)

New Counter-Drive
Batavia, Jan. 14.—Carrying their blows as far afield as the southern Philippines, Netherlands air and land forces opened a vigorous new counter-offensive against the Japanese today.

The attack coincided with arrival in the Dutch East Indies of the united nations' Far Eastern command, headed by General Sir Archibald W. Wavell of the British imperial army and General George H. Brett, U. S. A.

Dutch bombers, raided Japanese-occupied Tarakan, off the east coast of Borneo, scoring hits on a Japanese ship, while Dutch land forces engaged Jap troops on the border of Sarawak, killing 18 with the loss of only one man.

Meanwhile, a Netherlands flying boat flew northward to the south Philippines and bombed a Japanese air base, scoring three direct hits on a barracks.

Commenting on the loss of Tarakan, the newspaper Batavia Nieuwsblad declared:

"We must face the fall of Tarakan and not allow ourselves to be discouraged. Japan attacked at the right moment, as the unified command had not yet made itself effective, and even if our allies did what they could, large-scale reinforcements have not yet arrived."

"Under the circumstances the principal task of the garrison was to hold off the attackers long enough to carry out plans for destruction."

FORESEE NECESSITY OF COMPROMISE ON PRICE CONTROL BILL

ity ceiling would permit a 10 per cent rise in current farm prices.

Second Compromise
A second compromise called for adoption of the Bankhead amendment and the house provision for a review board, plus the 110 per cent parity ceiling on farm prices.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, has denounced all three provisions, although indicating he would accept the 110 per cent farm parity ceiling.

The president directed his main attack on the O'Mahoney-Russell amendment, charging it would dislocate the entire war program. He also assailed the Bankhead amendment, arguing that there must be a single authority over prices to block inflation and keep down the cost of living.

The president's criticism of the Bankhead amendment was not taken seriously on Capitol Hill.

It was noted that the president, when asked whether the amendment would give either Price Administrator Leon Henderson or Agriculture Secretary Wickard power of a veto over him, replied:

"No, because I can fire either of them."

Defend Amendment
Consequently, adherents of the Bankhead amendment were defending it on the ground that if a dispute ever did arise between Henderson and Wickard over farm prices, the president could step in and act as an arbiter.

The senate-house conference on the measure, postponed while administration leaders sought to work out an agreement, was scheduled to meet tomorrow. Sen. Brown (D) Mich., heads senate conferees while Rep. Steagall (D) Ala., heads the house group.

"I expect the bill to come out of conference with all the advantages given the farmers in the senate bill," said Sen. Eyerly (R) N. D., only member of the senate to vote against the entire measure.

The O'Mahoney amendment was being assailed on the grounds that it would benefit chiefly livestock, dairy and wool producers. They are important industries in Wyoming.

The Russell amendment, experts said, benefited chiefly cotton and potatoes.

Fighting at the front was reported to have decreased in intensity for the time being, although an engagement was understood to be still in progress in the Seremban area.

Brilliant work of British sappers, who put obstacles in the path of the Japanese, was credited with holding up the enemy advance.

Among the bridges blown up was the famed Iscandara span over the Perak river at Kuala Kangsi. This bridge was destroyed by royal engineers. They and Indian engineers also blew up several other bridges and tunnels and severed road and rail communications.

Destruction of the Iscandara bridge was declared to have delayed the Japs in northeast Perak for several days.

was not able to follow up offensively on one of the most staggering blows yet administered to the invaders.

They pointed out that, as a result, the Japs now can launch the next attack at their own discretion.

Japs May Delay
The Japanese battering ram, observers predicted, will not be plunged against the Bataan Peninsula again until the Nipponese field commanders reorganize their battered units. Authorities said the Japs possibly would strike quickly. It appeared more probable, however, that they would "take time out" to recover from their second unsuccessful effort to annihilate the island defenders.

A war department communiqué disclosed that the Japanese borders, including columns of tanks, armored units and infantry concentrations, "were shattered and dispersed" by defensive artillery barrage after a 24-hour duel.

Experts believed that the war department, in tersely stating that Japan's losses were "heavy," had minimized the Nipponese reversal. Veteran campaigners flatly expressed the opinion that Japan suffered "staggering casualties and a tremendous defeat."

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FACE PIMPLES

These disfiguring spots affecting the outer or surface layer of the skin often result from a temporary, minor disturbance, or from incorrect cleansing.

You can relieve the itchy, burning soreness and thereby help your skin by using an ointment whose medication stays in active contact with the pimply spots. Apply it every night and leave it on all night. It does a world of good.

For 45 years people have used Resinol Ointment to fill this need. It soothes the irritated oil ducts where many surface pimples start, and so aids healing. Carefully cleansing the skin with Resinol Soap helps to quicken the pleasing results. Its gently active laquer is refreshing and it rises easily.

Buy a jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap from any drugstore. For free sample, write Resinol, Dept. 19, Baltimore, Md.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CELEBRATE CHILD'S SUCCESSES

Mother nature makes us chary of praise and over-generous with blame. We do not have to look for things to punish children for; our nervous system does it for us. But to approve effectively, and as often as we should, calls for intellectual effort; and because we are so lazy mentally, we rarely celebrate successes in the child.

Pain prevents; what once was painful tends to be avoided. Pleasure promotes; what once was pleasant, tends to be repeated. By means of pain systematically applied, we easily can train the little child to avoid stepping off the curb into the street, turning on the gas jet or playing with fire. Foolishly most parents try also, by means of punishment, to make the little child choose to come in from play, pick up his blocks, or go happily to bed. Pain applied for such purposes becomes torture, and as a rule fails to bring the results expected.

How absurd and contradictory it is to employ pain to make any activity attractive! There is no better way to make children avoid saying "please" than to scold and punish them for not saying "please"; no better way to make them quarrel with each other than to quarrel with them; no better way to make them shy than by compelling them to shake hands with guests.

Make pleasant the thing you want the child to do. To make it easy for the little child to meet your company if he continues to be shy say nothing, but divert the attention of your guests away from him.

If he does not co-operate, you have no need to punish. He chose, and you are going to honor his decision as you would an adult's. Next time you will exercise more skill, and when he does co-operate you are going to guarantee so much satisfaction to him that he will be set for more cooperation.

When the baby puts together a few blocks, or makes something which he calls a house or barn or city, let him know you are proud of his building. Show appreciation of his simplest drawings. When he makes up yarns, listen with real interest.

When your guests have gone, praise the child for the specific good things he did; be silent on the bad ones. Tell him you were proud of him when he rose and shook hands with Mrs. Snow, looking her right in the eyes.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. When do the baby's first teeth appear?
A. From 6 to 9 months of age.

Order and time of appearance for the average baby is about as follows: central (front) incisors, 6 to 9 months; lateral (side) incisors, 8 to 10 months; first molars (back), 12 to 14 months; canines and cuspids, 18 to 24 months; second molars, 2 to 4 years.

Just Folks

GRANDPA VOLUNTEERS.
Hey, Uncle Sam, I'm asking you. What can a stout old grandpa do? Not one who keeps the rocking chair.

Back bent and gray of beard and hair,
But one who early in his life
Took gladly to himself a wife,
And thus much sooner than he should,
Found himself in grandparenthood.

This grandpa that I write about
Is just a trifle over stout;
Stands straight and did he hold his tongue,

You'd never guess he isn't young.
He walks the town at lively pace,
There's scarce a wrinkle in his face;
And now he's asking for a post,
Where he can serve you best and most.

Don't ask him for his weight of years,
Just take him on as he appears;
Wherever he can fight the foe,
He'll promptly pack his grip and go.

Why not—though it may strike you odd—
Enlist at once a grandpa squad;
A squad of youthful grandpas spy,
Already old enough to die?

We'll fight, we'll work, we'll do the chores,
Serve any need that may be yours;
Believe us, we're still fit to be
Defenders of democracy.

A little short of wind perhaps
But wind enough to beat the Japs!
So, Uncle Sam, till victory's won,
Call on us grandpas every one.

According to a dispatch from Libya, retreating Axis soldiers left a trail of fountain pens and cameras filled with explosives. These caused many British casualties.

The pens exploded when the ends were removed and the cameras blew up when opened.

This is not the first time that fountain pens and cameras exploded and caused considerable damage. Many a fountain pen, carelessly used, has brought about a juicy breach-of-promise suit, and photographs have done more than their share in convicting criminals.

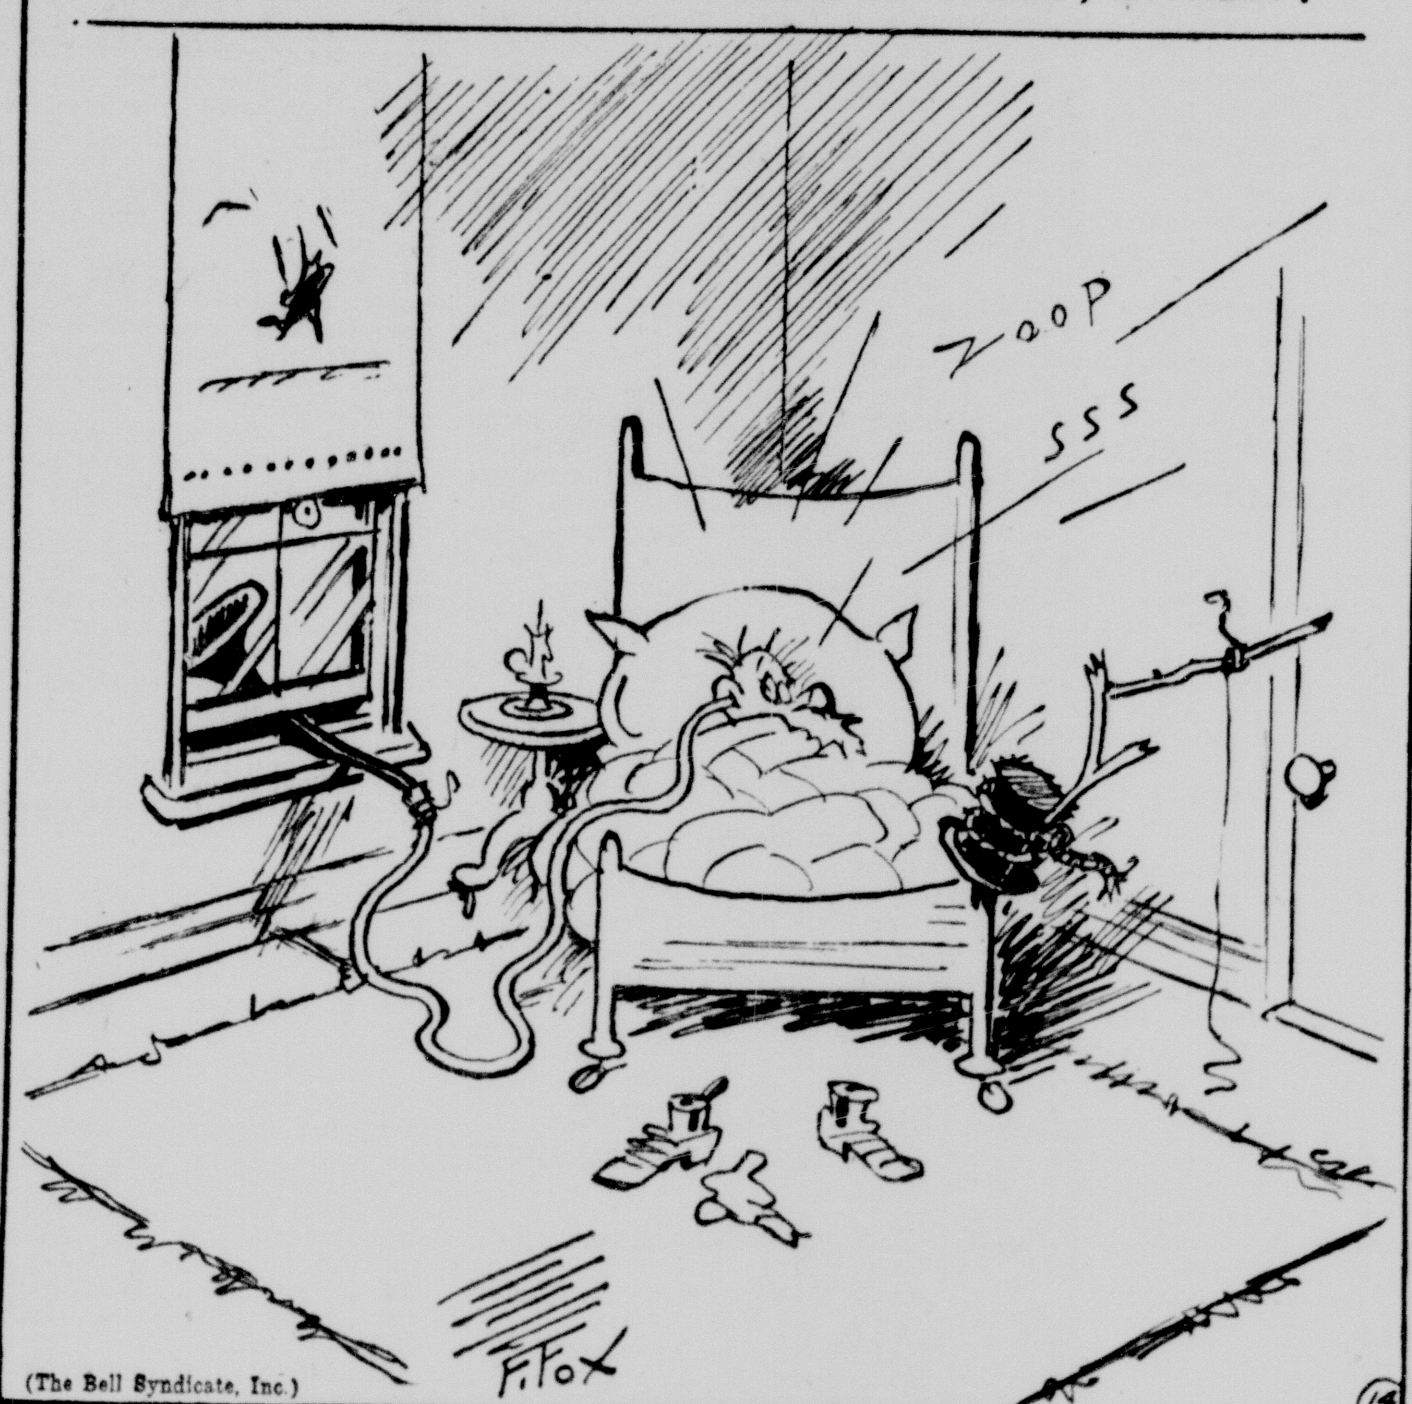

Be careful how you use your fountain pen or your camera; it may contain a bomb or a bomber-plant!

Let's make this war useful. Nothing else could have stopped the practice of appropriating public money to bribe voters.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:57. Sun rises tomorrow 7:20.

The money secured by the Red Cross drive will go where it will do the most good. The men who are fighting for our country must be supported. Have you given?

Distillers in this country are going to produce war alcohol. They always did produce stuff that made fights.

The best way to save tires and gasoline is to run the cars only when necessary.

Men's pants are to be made tight fitting and with no cuffs on the bottoms to save wool. The men are the only ones who are expected or who can make this sacrifice.

NOT LIVELY, ANYWAY

The Natural History museum is quite an institution and has lots of interesting things in it.

Not so long ago a youngster went to the museum with others from his school class.

When he got home his mother asked him what he had been doing in school that day.

"Teacher took us to see a dead circus," the youngster said.

Is a fish smarter than a man? If not, explain why it is that fish won't bite on a hook unless there is bait on it?

The government tells us our food stock is the greatest in history. Then why weaken morale by permitting grafters to raise prices?

If boys under 21 can save their country, isn't it rather silly to deny them a vote?

Give us a graduated tax on buying, so that each shall pay in proportion to what he consumes.

Mrs. Talksome—I was outspoken in my sentiments at the club today. Mr. T—I can't believe it. Who spoke you?

Morrison—Doctor, what would you call this fever of mine?
Lady Doctor—I'd call it a bargain. Yesterday it was 104 and today it is reduced to 98.

It was George Washington's custom to breakfast on three small corn cakes with honey and three cups of tea.

Why should gloves never be sold? Because they are intended to be kept on hand.

Question: Please give me some advice as to the proper curtains to use in my home. Would it be proper to use a different color scheme in each room or must they be all alike?—R. W.

Answer: A house, especially one detached, is disfigured if curtains of various colors and designs for each room are used. Your glass curtains (those of thin material placed next to the window glass) should be similar throughout the house, and those of each floor should be alike. Then your house will have a uniform appearance when viewed from the street. If the rooms need individual window treatment, this should be taken care of in the selection of your over-drapes. But even these should be alike for rooms opening into one another.

Question: Is it necessary that a bellboy in a hotel lobby be tipped for paging a guest?—Guest.

Answer: Indeed, yes, while there is no definite charge for such service, the paged guest who neglects to tip will be blacklisted in future and marked as a "tightwad."

Question: When the bride does not know the husband of a friend whom she wishes to invite to her wedding, is it correct for her to address her invitation to "Mrs." only?—Dot.

Answer: Whether she knows the husband or not, she must include him in the invitation.

JUST PLAIN LAZY

Julius has not been feeling well of late, so went to see a Doc about himself.

"If there's anything wrong with me, don't frighten me half to death by giving it a long scientific name," Julius told the doc. "Just tell me what it is in plain English."

"Well, it, to be plain frank, you're just plain lazy," was the diagnosis Julius got.

Then old Julius said, "Now give me the scientific names so I can tell it to the missus."

A tall, gaunt young man entered the office of the manager of the carnival. "I want an engagement with your outfit as a freak," he said.

"What's your act?" inquired the manager, as he peeled a hard-boiled egg on the stranger.

"I'm Enoch the Egg King," answered the freak. "I eat three dozen hen's eggs, two dozen duck eggs and one dozen goose eggs at a single sitting," he said proudly.

"I suppose you know our policy?" "I suppose you know our policy?" "I suppose you know our policy?" "I suppose you know our policy?"

"The lean young man hesitated. "In that case," he finally said, "I must have one thing plainly understood before I sign up."

"What's that?" snapped the manager.

"The slim freak replied, "In that case, no matter how rushing the business may be at the carnival, you gotta give me time enough off to eat my meals at the hotel."

In a Washington lumber camp 100 men were employed, and two women cooks.

"When you make your report," said the owner to the foreman in charge, "don't use a lot of language. Just put down in figures what has been done during the month."

"When the report came it read: 'Last month 1 percent of the men married 50 percent of the women.'"

Wants Separate Cabinet Post For Aviation
Nevada Solen Still Fighting For The Idea
Senatorial Committee Investigating Plans

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—As Senator Pat McCarran puts it, aviation today is "co-important" with armies and navies. That explains the fight the Nevada solon's waging for creation of a separate cabinet department of the air and the investigation that chairman Robert R. Reynolds' senatorial committee on military affairs is conducting to settle the matter.

The surface's professional warriors, ashore and afloat, rather generally oppose the separation of the flying arm from their respective forces. They don't dispute its value for offensive and defensive purposes, but they contend that it's more effective as an adjunct of their two services than it would be as an independent unit. To this Senator McCarran replies pretty tellingly that they didn't employ it very effectively over Honolulu and Pearl Harbor. There's no doubt that that initial Jap raid's success was something that the surface folk find it extremely difficult to explain satisfactorily. They do try to make the point that the Japs surprised their aviators as much as anybody else but the senator's come-back is that that was because the flyers were tied by the leg under orders from surface commanders.

The airman unmistakably would like an organization of their own. The average cloudland enthusiast isn't even prepared to agree with Senator McCarran that he's merely "co-important" with a grounding or a seafarer. He believes he's more important than either of the other two.

Planes' Advantage

There's considerable testimony to the purport that, at least for certain utilities, he is. If a beligerent power's objective is quite largely to shatter an enemy's civilian morale, it obviously can be done from overhead in the meanest way. A hostile area can't very well be occupied and held from a vertical direction. Parachutists can be landed in it but even civilians can kill 'em off about as fast as they land. To bomb a city from aloft, into stacks of rubble, and then scout away, is a simple enough stunt, though, and darned hard to guard against. Some planes can be shot down, but they'll have done their dirty work first and what aviator minds crashing into eternity in wartime!

One of Washington's suburbs, by the way, has an undertaker as its air raid warden. Appropriate what?

As an alternative to Senator McCarran's plan, the suggestion's made that consolidation of army, navy and aviation under a single command would be better—to unify rather than to split 'em up. However, they already are unified.

The World and the Mud Puddles

STOP WORRYING.

These are certainly times when investors don't have to look hard to find plenty of things to worry about.

Prominent among the current worries is the ultimate implication of the great expansion of industrial facilities now going on. We are going to come out of this war—presumably on the winning end—with far more production capacity than ever before.

People are asking, "How in the world can we ever use it for peace-time production?"

There is no statistical answer to this question. But we might bear in mind that it is not new. Every American boom—or rather the subsequent depression—found us with a temporary excess of production facilities. But the real problem was not so much capacity as deficient consumption. Always, within a relatively short time, we not only utilized the capacity but had to build more.

The real answer to the over-capacity problem is to be found in the creative use of the American people, their seldom satisfied desires, their unending search for the cheap and abundant goods which provide a high and rising standard of living. Unless we assume these characteristics are headed for extinction, we can assume that our increased production potential in the future will be utilized to the national good in one way or another. But Washington is just too jittery now.

There are many people who worry about what is going to happen to the great airplane manufacturing plants that have been erected and equipped at great expense. I think I have already said in this column that after the war these airplane manufacturing establishments are going to make airplanes a very stiff competitor with automobiles. The genius of American manufacturers is going to accomplish this, although it may seem rather difficult now, but I believe it just the same.

When the war hysteria has given way to intelligent direction from Washington, there will be less and less priority business. There will have to be, because the people of this nation will demand that they be able to obtain the necessary things for good health, and the interference with the manufacture and sale of the necessities of life will become less and less. We are a great people. We don't need WPA's just now, much less AAA's and a whole lot of other Bureaus, and the people employed in them, and by these Bureaus can be put to much more worthwhile work in private business, which after all is the public's job.

NEW YORK, Lieut. Commander Gene Tunney thinks the armed forces are going sissy. "What the men need is less pampering from hostesses of all types... less attention from fawning women and more play areas for vigorous athletic activities."

BIRTHDAYS OF FAMOUS AMERICANS

(Compiled by Encyclopedia Britannica)

JANUARY 14

1741—Benedict Arnold, soldier, at Norwich Conn. He assisted in the capture of Ticonderoga and, with Gen. Richard Montgomery, led an American force against Quebec during the Revolutionary War. For bravery in these campaigns he was made a brigadier-general. Having constructed a flotilla on Lake Champlain, he severely defeated the British fleet near Valcour Island in October, 1776. In 1780 he turned traitor and plotted to betray West Point to the British. After his plot had been exposed, Arnold escaped to the British lines.

1806—Matthew Fontaine Maury, naval officer and hydrographer in Spotsylvania County, Virginia. An accident which resulted in permanent lameness unfitted him for active service, and in 1841 he took charge of the depot of charts and instruments, out of which grew the U. S. naval observatory and the hydrographic office in 1855.

1870—Jeremiah Smith, lawyer and economist, at Dover, N. H. At the close of the World War he was appointed counsel to the treasury department in Europe and to the U. S. peace commission, acting also as an adviser in financial matters. During 1924-26 as commissioner-general of the League of Nations in Hungary he was successful in stabilizing the currency and placing Hungarian finance on a sound basis.

What's What At A Glance

under the president, as commander-in-chief. That's a unit that the senator doesn't propose to break up. All he wants is a triple rather than a dual sub-division, under specialists, sub-managing for each triplet. Collectively, the president's to continue to boss 'em all.

Some aviatorial authorities predict that the current conflict will resolve itself presently into an almost exclusively overhead war—that surface forces won't signify much before its end.

Senator McCarran's notion is to give the three groups of scrappers a reasonable amount of interchangeability. That is to say, if a general or an admiral needs a detail of flyers for his land or sea outfit's assistance, such flyers as he requires will be assigned to him temporarily. Or, if the aviation chief wants a few ships or a detail of early troops, he'll get 'em while the necessity exists. There'll be more or less flopping back and forth between the war and navy departments, too.

Asks Three Departments

But there'll be three distinct cabinet departments, as a permanent, if Pat has his way.

That there's a good bit of inter-departmental jealousy is recognized.

The army's and navy's interests don't clash frequently, so far as the earth's surface is concerned, but they do clash as to their respective aviatorial demands are concerned, they're both jealous of aviation's development and the aviation resent being subjected to earthly authority.

The fact is that warfare's been so radically revised since the world's last experience that even its experts are seriously confused as to what's what and who's whom.

Senator McCarran is trying to straighten 'em out—if HE knows. Some say he does and some say he doesn't.

Chairman Reynolds' senatorial committee is endeavoring to ascertain.

Vagabond Tells Of Wanderings

Splendors And Friendliness Of Hawaiian Islands Pictured By Don Blanding

Don Blanding, former newspaper man, wanderer, and poet, delighted members of the New Castle Executive club with a marvelous word picture of his wanderings, principally those in the Hawaiian Islands, where he has spent many pleasurable years.

Mr. Blanding's talk had been billed as pure entertainment and he lived up to all predictions which had been made in advance, his audience sitting enraptured as he took them on the climber ship from the Pacific coast to the Pacific paradise.

In spite of his six feet of rugged manhood, Blanding's voice shook with emotion, when he described the final drop over the mountain peaks into Pearl Harbor, where only a few weeks ago, Japanese fliers some of them trained at the University of Hawaii and in Pacific coast schools, slipped down over the hills and delivered such a foul blow to a country which had once befriended them.

Everything in Hawaii reflects the friendliness of the people and the lush beauty of the land, Mr. Blanding stated, and everything that is done there is on a lavish scale.

The speaker was introduced by Tom Paden, who was presented by President Orville Potter, the invocation having been given by Rev. J. Calvin Rose.

President Potter announced that the club is now near capacity and that membership restrictions will have to be taken. He announced that Don Bate will be the next speaker, and will discuss Alaska and Hawaii as they fit into the United States defense plans. The reception committee will be: Judge and Mrs. John G. Lamoree, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Felch, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Elliott, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Mikels.

RUSSIAN TROOPS REPORTED NEARING CITY OF KHARKOV

closing them in iron death traps. From the Kharkov region north to Orel, still other Soviet legions were reported attacking and field reports said the Russians were piercing Nazi defense lines.

Push Toward Smolensk
On the central sector, the Russians pushed forward to a point only 85 miles from Smolensk by capturing the industrial city of Kirov.

The Soviet (Tass) news agency said the Russian forces in the north were approaching the Nazi fortified lines and defenses on the Leningrad front. This report said the Germans were fighting desperately for every yard of thinly populated territory which they still retain east of Leningrad.

The village of "L" was said to have been surrounded, with street fighting still in progress.

Pierce fighting also was reported raging around the township of "V" on the Karelian front. Tass said the Soviets lodged the Finns from this town, killing and wounding 3,000 Finnish troops.

Recapture of Kirov was announced in an official communiqué.

Report Hitler Moves
(Editor's Note: Until recently Adolf Hitler was reported to have maintained his military headquarters at Smolensk. Several days ago Russian reports claimed Hitler had moved his headquarters to some undisclosed and safer point farther south.)

Kirov was retaken by the southern arm of the Russian pincer closing in around the Smolensk-Moscow highway. The northern arm was declared to have recaptured Dvorkovo, 15 miles east of Moshaisk, carrying forward the encirclement of Nazi forces trapped in the Moshaisk area.

(A British radio broadcast heard by CBS said the Russian air force is now bombing Nazi airdromes and troops as far back as Poland and that this campaign is "receiving great aid from Polish guerrillas." It added German casualties in Poland are "reaching a high figure.")

(A Reuters (British) dispatch from Vichy said the Soviets had been dropping parachutists behind axis lines in the Crimea for the past two days and that savage battles are raging at many points.)

(It added that Russian cavalry units in the Crimea are attacking German lines at Karasubazar, 25 miles northeast of the Crimean capital of Simferopol. On the northern front, this "report added, the Soviet advance below Lake Ilmen is continuing.")

Nearing Kharkov
In the Donetz area, said the Moscow radio, the Russians have advanced to a point within 12 miles of the great industrial metropolis of Kharkov.

Brief but desperate street fighting was declared to have preceded the Russian recapture of Kirov, after which the Nazis fled in disorder, leaving many dead on the streets. The Nazis set fire to the town but the red army quickly extinguished the flames.

The Russian (Tass) news agency said the red army drive on the southern front was growing more important daily. It added that an enemy formation was routed near the village of "K", leaving behind 500 dead.

A new high command war bulletin said there were "active operations on a number of sectors of the front throughout the night." Meanwhile, severe fighting was reported on the northern Leningrad front, where the Nazis were reported to have rushed fresh reinforcements.

The newspaper Red Star reported that the railway line on the central front from Kaluga to Maloyaroslavets is now entirely in Russian hands as a result of the recent Soviet recapture of Tikhonovo-Pustyn, a few miles northwest of Kaluga.

According to the midnight war communiqué, Russian forces "continued to fight their way forward and occupied several inhabited localities" on all principal sectors.

Gigantic Maneuver

In the north the Soviets sent out new forces north and south of Lake Ilmen in a gigantic maneuver to trap the reinforced Nazi contingents in the Leningrad area. One Russian column was reported at the gates of Staraya Russa, 10 miles south of Lake Ilmen.

(The London radio broadcast a Stockholm report that Staraya Russa already has been occupied by the Soviets.)

And at the opposite extremity of the front, in the Crimea, Russian forces from the Caucasus were reported to have made new landings near the great naval base of Sevastopol, launching immediate fresh attacks on the German and Rumanian forces already threatened with entrapment in the Black sea peninsula.

About 210 miles south of Moscow a two-pronged Russian attack was declared to be threatening the city of Orel with speedy recapture by the charging red army forces.

In a press conference at Kuibyshev, Vice Foreign Commissar S. A. Lozovsky indicated spectacular new Russian victories are imminent west of Moscow and in the Crimea.

Asserting that the "military position has now become favorable for the Soviet Union," Lozovsky said the Germans had lost 200,000 in dead alone between Nov. 16 and Dec. 6. He added that 100,000 Germans have been caught in an "unenviable" position in the Moshaisk sector west of Moscow.

Conserve Burlap Bags Is Warning Issued In State

HARRISBURG, Jan. 14.—"Use no hooks" is the theme of efforts being made by the Pennsylvania U. S. D. A. state war board to conserve the dwindling supply of burlap bags and cloth.

Imports of burlap from far-away India have been reduced to a trickle since Japan's sneak-attack in the Far East last month. Of that slight amount of burlap still being imported, two-thirds is being taken by the government for military purposes.

James E. Walker, chairman of the state U. S. D. A. board, urged farmers to make special efforts to extend the life of their burlap sacks "because there is no telling when they will be able to get any more." He added that "farmers can save themselves a lot of agony by conserving the cloth they already have on hand."

The U. S. D. A. state war board is urging farmers to refrain from ripping their burlap sacks when opening them, to use no hooks, and to hang them in dry, protected places for later use.

Used bags can usually be sold to the dealers from which they were received.

NO SMOKING IN BLACKOUT

(International News Service)
LONDON.—It has finally been settled—officially! We are not allowed to smoke in the blackout. During two years and three months of war Britons have never been quite clear on that subject. Now they know—and, says the Ministry of Home Security, the decision is final.

Pittsburgh Mother Gets Letter From Soldier-Son On Midway Island

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14.—A "letter from Midway" brought comfort to a Pittsburgh mother today as she learned that as recently as January 2 her 21-year-old son was safe on the tiny Pacific isle.

Two letters—one dated December 29, the other January 2—were received by Mrs. E. L. Jarrett from her son, Jack, a U. S. Marine stationed on Midway Island. The letter, postmarked January 3, Hickam Field, Honolulu, said:

"Dearest Mother, there isn't much to tell except I'm still O. K. and am getting along pretty good."

The earlier letter thanked Mrs. Jarrett for the Christmas gifts Jack received and asked her to take some money from his savings account to "buy a good present" for his brother, Ray, who was to be married.

"I've been so worried since there has been no news from Midway," Mrs. Jarrett said. "Now we know at least that there is communication with the island. Perhaps if a plane flew from there to Honolulu it means that the island is being re-informed. Anyway, it's wonderful to know he's all right."

There are two kinds—useful citizens and deadheads who ride free; and now we'll know which is which.

"Storm," the best seller, is all about weather, which shows that no topic is dull if the writer isn't.

HERE ARE A FEW BLACKOUT TIPS FOR MOTORISTS

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla.—Do you know what to do if you get caught in a blackout while driving your automobile?

Here is what the South Florida Motor club recommends:

After the first warning, you should pull your car to the curb. Wait in the dark at least two minutes until your eyes are accustomed to the night. Then proceed slowly.

You should carry headlight masks in your automobile. You can make them easily. If you do not have any, pack your car on a dark side street, lock it, and seek refuge.

Fix strips of white paper or adhesive tape to the front and back bumpers to aid vision of other drivers. Keep your windshield clean.

Never exceed 15 miles per hour during the blackout. Come to almost a halt at intersections. Don't follow another car too closely.

Keep your mind on driving. And stay sober.

Jack Spratt had no fat; his wife had no lean; and so between them they kept the house too hot or too cold for one another and felt mean.

'Scorched Earth' Policy Is Applied To Kuala Lumpur

By S. A. WYKES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SINGAPORE, Jan. 14.—One of the strangest stories of this or any other war—the weird tale of how the "scorched earth" policy was applied to Kuala Lumpur before it was abandoned to the Japs—reached Singapore today.

Everything that might have been useful to the Japs was destroyed during the "last" days of Kuala Lumpur. Bridges were blown up and other strategic installations were wrecked.

All the British forces were safely withdrawn from the positions north of the city to the new defense line just north of Seremban.

Correspondents who were in Kuala Lumpur in those final hours told of witnessing astonishing scenes. One of them related:

"As we drove through the streets we heard explosions at regular intervals as bridges were blown up on Sunday afternoon.

"Goods were freely distributed to the native population to prevent them from falling into the hands of the Japs.

"We saw natives carrying away food, drink and clothing on bicycles and in rickshaws, in carts and automobiles.

"Clouds of smoke rose on all sides and as we left, the railway station was set on fire.

Transportation Feat

"As we drove south toward Seremban we saw every indication that British sappers were attending to the famous Kajan pass for the purpose of delaying the enemy."

Advices to Singapore said the withdrawal of the hard-pressed

British units back to their new lines was a magnificent feat of transportation.

For nine hours the main north-south road was crisscrossed with British troops. But all were taken back 50 miles without mishap.

As they withdrew the Imperial troops sang. The little Gurkhas—India's toughest fighting men—were especially high-spirited. En route to their new positions they kept giving the "thumbs up" sign to Chinese and Malay children in the villages which they passed.

At the same time, a group of correspondents returned to Singapore from Batavia with news of anti-axis air-preparedness in the Dutch East Indies island of Borneo.

They said the 30 secret airfields constructed in the wild Borneo jungles undoubtedly will prove useful to the defenders. So skillfully have these fields been concealed, they related, that even returning Dutch pilots have trouble finding them—let alone the Japs.

Your Federal Income Tax

NO. 9 METHODS OF ACCOUNTING AND RECORDS FOR INCOME TAX PURPOSES

The Internal Revenue Code provides that the net income of a taxpayer shall be computed upon the basis of his annual accounting period in accordance with the method of accounting regularly employed in keeping his books; but if no such method of accounting has been so employed or if the method employed does not clearly reflect the income, the computation is to be made in accordance with such method as in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue does clearly reflect the income.

The regulations recognize that no uniform method of accounting can be prescribed for all taxpayers, and the law contemplates that each taxpayer shall adopt such forms and systems of accounting as are in his judgment best suited to his purpose.

The methods of accounting most generally used are (1) the cash receipts and disbursement method, and (2) the accrual method. The regulations provide that in order to reflect net income correctly, inventories at the beginning and end of each taxable year are necessary in every case in which the production, purchase, or sale of merchandise is an income-producing factor, and that in any case in which it is necessary to use an inventory, no method of accounting in regard to purchases and sales will correctly reflect income except an accrual method.

Each taxpayer is required by law to make a return of his true income and under the regulations he is required to maintain such accounting records as will enable him to do so. His books and records must be kept at all times available for inspection by internal-revenue officers and retained as long as the contents thereof may become material in the administration of any internal revenue law.

Urges More U. S. Factories Turn Out War Aids

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Asking the U. S. conference of mayors to aid in getting more and more factories into war production, O. P. M. contract distribution director Floyd B. Odum on Tuesday declared that the gallant young Americans "fighting and dying for us this very hour" will "go on fighting and dying until we give them enough weapons to overwhelm the enemy."

"They will begin winning this war the moment we give them sufficient tanks and planes and warships," the contract chief told the mayors.

Odum declared that "our arch-enemy, Hitler," has shown this country the way to win the struggle—to pit greater masses of metal and well-trained troops against our enemies than they can possibly muster.

Whereas our troops stand to their posts, ready to shed blood for freedom, it will remain our eternal shame if any of our boys, or the comrades of the Allied nations, shed blood for lack of iron," he said.

America has nearly 200,000 factories, many of which still must enter the arms program, he said, and appealed to the city officials to urge every qualified manufacturer not yet in war work to visit O. P. M. exhibit halls in or near their cities to obtain information for government jobs.

Americanization committee met Saturday evening in the Y. M. C. A. with Miss Mary Riffer, the president, in charge. The following report was given for the Neighborhood House for the month of December:

All classes are meeting as usual with special emphasis put on the Christmas work. The first children to be entertained were 14 small girls whom the Home Economics club of the high school entertained at the high school with games, refreshments and gifts to take home.

The John Lockhart class of the First U. P. church sponsored the sewing class party when 48 girls and boys were served cookies, candy and ice cream. Mrs. Lyle Hughes represented the class and brought with her Mrs. Stewart and several of her class who led the girls and boys in singing Christmas carols.

The L. T. U. had 49 members present at its party. Their program consisted of work learned through the year and singing of Christmas hymns and recitations by members. Miss Margaret Lowrey, president of Scotland W. C. T. U., which sponsors the club as well as their Christmas party, was present and talked to the group. Refreshments were served this group also.

The Luther League of St. John's Lutheran church entertained the Junior League with games, Christmas music, special music played by Mr. Drake on the guitar, and refreshments.

The intermediates of Highland U. P. Sunday school gave their candy to the Neighborhood House Sunday school for their Christmas treat. The popcorn balls were the gifts of the Junior Girl Reserves. The Christmas program for the Sabbath school was given mainly by Miss Virginia Roberts' class, with the help of the boys' class and members of Eleanor Saros' class. Jay Allsworth, superintendent, presided. The class of boys, taught by Jean Butler, were announced as winners in the contest and received a prize.

The Bible study class entertained 34 of its members at a Christmas party. The women of the class formed the committee in charge. A Christmas story was told by the teacher, Jean Butler, and Christmas hymns were sung. Lunch was served by the committee.

The women's English class was served cake, ice cream and coffee at the conclusion of their class work.

Good friends made it possible to give five of the Neighborhood House families a nice Christmas with Christmas baskets. Toys given by other friends helped to bring a good time to the children with 103 toys being given out. Those who helped were the Reading Circle, Mrs. James Ray, Highland U. P. Sunday school, Mrs. J. W. McCreary's class of Highland church, John Lockhart class of First U. P. church, Mrs. Stewart's class of First U. P. church, Christian Endeavor of First U. Airport Guarded, Planes Fly Today

Full-Time Watch Set Up At Parkstown Corners; Activity Normal

MANY PILOTS HAVE BEEN REINSTATED

New Castle airport is in full operation again with the establishment today of a 24-hour armed guard at the Parkstown Corners port.

The guard will properly check all incoming aircraft and clear all outgoing ships for both local and cross-country flights.

The airfield has been closed for more than a week under broad orders of the Civil Aeronautics Administration which halted activity at all airports until guards were provided.

Arrange For Guard
The guard appointment came following hurriedly-arranged conferences between Findley C. Wilson, airport operator, and CAA authorities at Pittsburgh.

Re-opening of the landing field makes it possible for any reinstated pilot to continue flight training and to indulge in pleasure and sight-seeing flights of in business trips, provided he has been officially cleared by the office attendant and guard.

Reinstatement of 47 local pilots came only Monday after that many appeared before a CAA inspector at the field.

Operator Wilson, commenting on the resumption today, said:

"This will permit us to speed the defense effort and complete flight instruction courses of government students. Pilots are needed now more than ever before—as are airports—and we felt it imperative that the guard be hired and flying operations resumed."

Wilson said a misunderstanding of the guard's work has arisen. He explained that the guard's chief duty is to prevent unauthorized flights of sabotage using aircraft for subversive purposes. He will, however, furnish a measure of protection for the airport by his presence.

Switzerland Is Facing Shortage

Government Studies Plans To Alleviate Scarcity Of Fuel And Food

(International News Service)

ZURICH, Switzerland, Jan. 14.—Various plans were under consideration today to help alleviate serious shortages of fuel and food supplies in Switzerland.

Landlocked and blockaded, neutral Switzerland has been hit equally as hard as the continental nations engaged in hostilities and finds even tougher going as the war continues through the third winter.

Foremost among proposals to relieve shortages are a plan to extract cooking oil from tobacco plant seeds and a move to require the non-farming population to raise their own supplies of greens and potatoes if they have flower gardens or lawns available.

Additional Acres Reclaimed
Even though some 135,000 additional acres of land were cultivated in Switzerland during the spring of this year a government decree calls for the reclaiming of another 135,000 to 160,000 acres for planting next year.

Dr. Fritz Whalen, head of the Swiss Federal Agricultural Experimental Institute and former head of the Agricultural Research Institute of Canada, is directing the plans for increased home production.

Due to the general fuel crisis Switzerland has been obliged to use a considerable part of her firewood supplies for her industry. Strict regulations prevail consequently regarding the heating and ventilation of private homes and business premises. Heat is allowed only in the living room of a home or apartment. Exceptions are made in cases of illness.

State Abandons National Tourist Drive For Year

Will Confine Tourist Advertising To Adjoining And Nearby States

By JOHN PAGET
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 14.—Pennsylvania has abandoned its national campaign to attract tourists because of the war, Secretary of Commerce Mark S. James revealed today, but will use a $150,000 fund to place vacation advertising in surrounding states.

People should show their patriotism—and save on gasoline and tires—by spending vacation nearer home, using only trains or buses, James said.

The tourist trade is Pennsylvania's third largest industry, he added, attracting approximately $375,000,000 yearly.

"Both state and national health officials realize that recreation is necessary for workers in industry, who were asked to break all existing 'production' records when the nation entered the war," James said. "The spirit and morale of the people win wars, and recreation is almost as much of a necessity as the munitions which they produce."

However, Pennsylvania is not going to place national tourist advertising because we do not propose that people should use their automobiles, wear out tires and consume gasoline, but we will place our advertisements in newspapers in surrounding states.

James said the proposal to abandon national tourist advertising and to concentrate on attracting visitors from adjacent states had been adopted by the department's tourist committee, which will meet next week to draft a definite state advertising program to operate during the war.

Men In Draft Must Inform Boards Of Address Changes

Failure To Comply With Rul- ing Results In Some Be- ing Delinquent

Men who are registered in the draft and who fail to keep their local boards informed of changes of address, are subjecting themselves to the liability of being classified as delinquents and if unable to give a reasonable excuse, may be punished severely, a local draft board official stated today.

Six in Lawrence county were registered as delinquent recently and their names turned over to the FBI for investigation. Some of these men have already appeared before their local boards and cleared up their status. In most cases, neglect to inform the board they had changed their address was due to carelessness, draft board officials state.

SLOWER DRIVING TO REDUCE TIRE WEAR IS URGED

HARRISBURG, Jan. 14.—Slower driving of motor vehicles was urged today by T. Elmer Transeau, tire rationing administrator, as a means of conserving rubber.

In addition to helping save rubber, Transeau said, slower driving also will help reduce accidents and save lives.

"Fast driving more than anything else uses up rubber," the rationing administrator said, "and since tires in the foreseeable future will be increasingly scarce, the best method of conservation is to reduce speed."

"Secondly, since vehicles on the highways will be driven with old imperfect tires, safety clearly calls for reduction in the speed of vehicles."

"Since the rationing of tires and tubes became effective January 5 under federal regulation states are taking steps to reduce the allowable speed limits on the highways. Authorities in Connecticut have announced that 40 miles an hour will be the limit for motorists in that state."

"The old saying 'Better be safe than sorry' may seem a bit hackneyed but it is truer today than ever. Under the present stringent federal rationing quotas tire use in Pennsylvania has been cut by more than 90 per cent."

"What the future holds I am unable to say. There may be groups of motorists who feel they are in the categories designated by the government to receive certificates to purchase new tires and tubes. These may not be available even if the rationing boards approve the applications."

"I do not want to appear as an alarmist, however if all motor vehicle operators will use care and caution the millions of tires now in use in Pennsylvania will last much longer than at present anticipated."

Traffic Lines Are Fog Safety Factor

HARRISBURG, Jan. 14.—The Department of Highway traffic line painting during 1941 brought a letter of commendation from a Berks county motorist who praised its value as a safety factor.

"The value of the white lines on the highways throughout this part of the state has been proven," he wrote.

"Foggy conditions made travel extremely difficult. The white lines showed up quite clearly and a driver could proceed with certainty at practically all times."

"I want to congratulate you and thank you for this work which I know entails a great deal of expense and effort on the many thousands of miles of highway. I have always felt these white lines were a definite safety factor. The help of these lines on foggy nights is excellent."

Last year the department painted more than 12,000 miles of traffic lines, the largest mileage in its history. There were more than 100,000 gallons of paint used to complete this program.

Lions Get Insight On County Defense

Dr. Jackson, Defense Council Chief, Says Plans Pro- gressing Well

War-time civilian defense plans for Lawrence county are quietly progressing on a broad front, Lieut. Col. W. Fulton Jackson, chairman of the Lawrence County Defense Council, told the Lions club at its luncheon in the Castleton yesterday.

The chain of command from the national headquarters down to the county council is functioning well," Dr. Jackson declared. "We are setting up the many departments of civilian defense right here now. Coordination is being stressed."

To the elaborate system of civilian defense, as charted for the whole country "for the duration," Dr. Jackson devoted much of his time. He called for cooperation wherever cooperation is asked.

The speaker said W. W. Irwin, former Farrell school head and the county's new chief air raid warden instructor, and his deputy, Robert W. Lamore, will take an advanced course January 16 and 17 at Pittsburgh and then return to start local classes. Other like courses of instruction are planned.

Dr. Jackson lauded the women of the community who are giving freely of their time and energy to civilian defense through American Red Cross.

Dance Here January 23

Members of Lion's clubs and their wives from Greenville, Ellwood City, Beaver Falls, Ambridge and Rochester will come to New Castle the night of Friday January 23, to join in a dance with the local clubmen and their wives. George F. Winter, Jr. is chairman of arrangements.

On the night before the dance—on January 22—President Harding H. Thayer will lead a local Lions party to the Youngstown dinner honoring First Vice President Ed Paine of Lions International. Paine comes from Michigan City, Ind.

100 Million Dollar Investment In Potato

HARRISBURG, Jan. 14.—The potato industry in Pennsylvania represents an investment of approximately 100 million dollars in addition to farmland investments, according to compilations of the department of Agriculture made public Secretary John H. Light.

The annual far cash income from this important division of agriculture is about 35 million dollars.

To grow this important food crop Pennsylvania growers spend annually more than five million dollars for seed, spraying materials, fertilizers and other supplies. About 50,000 tons of steel for sprayers, tractors and trucks are required annually to grow and transport the crop to market and 100,000 gallons of gasoline are required daily during season to operate the equipment. It requires 20 million hours of farm labor to produce the crop for which wages amounting to about five million dollars are paid annually.

Accelerated Plan Set For Geneva

Speed Up Graduation Date— Start Summer School Term Weeks Earlier

(Special To The News)

BEAVER FALLS, Jan. 14.—The faculty of Geneva College was called in a special meeting yesterday to take final action on a program which would coordinate the College with the demands of the national war emergency.

President Pearce emphasized the finding of the Baltimore conference of government and college executives and stressed the care that must be taken to furnish for the government a steady supply of technically trained men for leadership in the war activity.

Together with the other colleges of the tri-state district Geneva is to follow an accelerated program for the duration of the war.

At this meeting the faculty voted to abolish the customary spring vacation and to move up the date of Commencement to May 19, 1942. Our colleges as well as our factories are going on to a system of more shifts. By the plan adopted, not only will the semester end early, but a new full semester will commence on May 26 to run until September.

Enemies must appreciate our free press. Without it they wouldn't know how many anti-aircraft guns we haven't got.

Nelson Is Named Head Of U. S. War Production Board

Has Full Charge Of U. S. Production

Single Production Control Plan Is Expected To Aid War Program

PRESIDENT ONLY CAN BALK BOARD

By GEORGE DURO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Donald M. Nelson, erstwhile guiding genius of one of America's biggest mail order houses, today held complete and final control over the entire productive wartime capacity of the United States—subject only to countermand by President Roosevelt.

All earlier experiments in stepping up production, granting priorities and procuring essential raw material through divided control were swept aside by the President in one all-embracing order which established a "war production board."

Given "General Supervision" Nelson, as chairman, is charged with full direction of the war production program. He is further given "general supervision" over all production agencies.

"His decision," declared President Roosevelt in a formal statement, "as to questions of procurement and production will be final."

Sitting at Nelson's right hand will be Vice President Henry A. Wallace, who is chairman of the President's economic defense board—an agency charged with putting the utmost possible squeeze on Germany, Japan and their satellites.

Merged under Nelson's "final" authority in the matter of actually producing 185,000 planes, 120,000 tanks, 18,000,000 tons of shipping and an astounding quantity of guns and munitions are all present members of the office of production management, the supply priorities and allocations board, and the production boards of the army and navy.

The Presidential order conceded that Britain's bitter experience which ultimately made Lord Beaverbrook unquestioned minister of supply should apply in the American all-out diversion of industry to war production.

Subordinate to Nelson in the matter of "procurement and production" are the following members of the newly created war production board:

Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, OPM Director General William S. Knudsen; Associate OPM Director Sidney Hillman; Price Administrator Leon Henderson, and Lend-Lease Generalissimo Harry Hopkins.

Together with Vice President Wallace, this group comprised the supply priorities and allocations board—set up attempted by the President in advance of one-man control.

Mr. Roosevelt issued a statement last night after conferring with Nelson and Wallace which left no doubt that the Chief Executive finally had acceded to a single production control such as was exercised in the first World War by Bernard M. Baruch, who was appointed chairman of the war industries board by Woodrow Wilson. Baruch, a close White House adviser, long has urged the necessity of such a concentration of authority, and Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply, is understood to have added his admonition in the recent American-British conferences at the White House.

Believe Axis Nations Will Be Outlawed In Western Hemisphere

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Responsible quarters in Washington today believe the Pan-American defense conference which opens at Rio De Janeiro Thursday will decide to outlaw the Axis nations from the western hemisphere.

Strong hope prevails in American quarters that the conference of the 21 American Republics will adopt a unanimous resolution calling for a severance of diplomatic relations with the Axis powers by all the nations of this hemisphere.

This move to banish the Axis from the new world is expected to be the most important political achievement of the conference.

The resolution calling for complete severance of diplomatic relations by all of the Latin American Republics will be introduced at the conference by Uruguay.

The American delegation, headed by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, will do its utmost to obtain unanimous support for the Uruguayan proposal.

Prior to his departure from Washington, Welles succeeded in obtaining assurances from a majority of the Latin American diplomats that their governments would support the proposals.

Argentina is expected to prove the most difficult nation to win over to the proposal, but events are said to be taking place in that republic which encourage American officials to believe the Argentine delegation will adhere when the anti-Axis resolution comes up for the final vote.

Twelve of the 20 Latin American nations already have severed diplomatic relations with the Axis. Nine of them have declared war on Germany, Italy and Japan.

The remaining eight nations which have not yet severed diplomatic relations are Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador, Paraguay, Peru and Uruguay.

Brazil, Chile and Ecuador are considered almost certain to support the Uruguayan proposal. Bolivia, Paraguay and Peru are expected to do so with a little persuasion from the other delegates to the conference. Once the others have agreed, Argentina is expected to pledge its support.

If the resolution is adopted unanimously, it will represent the greatest demonstration of western hemisphere solidarity in history.

No such support was given the United States in the first World War. Many of the Latin American nations, including Argentina, Chile, Colombia, Mexico, and Venezuela, remained throughout that conflict.

The dominican republic will introduce a resolution at the Rio conference calling for a declaration of war against the Axis powers by all the Latin American nations, but this proposal is considered doomed to failure. Argentina already has gone on record as opposed to it.

Seek To Speed Graduation Date

Westminster Faculty Forms Program — College May Have Summer School

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Jan. 14.—In order to speed up the graduation date of students needed in national defense, Westminster college faculty members voted this week to allow students to schedule for "extra hours" with the Dean's permission and to enable students to complete their work before the end of the regular semester if needed in vital defense positions. President R. E. Galbreath announced today.

The faculty action was in compliance with requests made by Army and Navy officials at a recent meeting of the presidents and deans of American colleges in Baltimore.

Action will be taken in the near future on the matter of a possible summer school session at Westminster, in order to accelerate student-graduation.

Plans are being made by the Westminster physical education department to enable every collegian and co-ed registered in college to participate in a sports program. At present only two years of physical education are required for graduation.

There is a possibility that formal dances will be curtailed and that the college will enter a definite "de-emphasis" on extracurricular activities so that students can spend full time on studies except for organized all-college social events.

Amish To Have New Settlement In Mercer County

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Jan. 14.—A settlement of Amish families soon is to be established in Mercer county.

Leaders of a colony, formerly located in Crawford county, near Geneva, during recent weeks have been taking options and leasing property in the north central section of Mercer county, between Hadley and Jackson Center, for the new settlement.

They have lived within the area to be acquired by the federal government as the site for the Key-stone Ordnance Works, a TNT plant.

A large number of families expect to migrate from Crawford county to the new community before spring. Last week, Amish leaders purchased a small tract of land in Sandy Creek township which will be the site of a Mennonite church, to be known as the Maple Grove Amish Mennonite church.

Several farms are reported to have been sold to Amish farmers, northwest of Jackson Center, and negotiations are underway for sale and lease of other farms in the district extending between Jackson Center and Hadley.

Bomb Shelters Are Built As Population Drills For Raids

(International News Service)

UNITED STATES NAVAL HEADQUARTERS, Balboa, Canal Zone.—Erection of bombing protection shelters, means of extinguishing incendiary bombs and camouflage preparations have been described as part of the internal security and passive defense plans for the Isthmus of Panama being formulated by the Fifteenth Naval district, according to the commandant, Rear Admiral Frank Sadler.

Admiral Sadler disclosed he has been conferring with officials of the Panama Fire department in connection with controlling incendiary bombs that may be dropped on the Isthmus. He also said he has discussed plans for camouflaging Panama's red-topped landmarks.

The bomb protection shelters, described by Admiral Sadler as "splinter proof shelters," are planned to be constructed of galvanized iron and sandbags. They will be located about the Canal Zone and the Republic of Panama to provide safety accommodations for Army, Navy and civilian populations of the zone and Panama. The shelters will be so spaced that they will be accessible within one minute from the populated residential and employment centers.

Hear Hitler's Plans Are Running Into Trouble

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

CAIRO, Jan. 14.—Pinched for oil and with severe winter weather disrupting southeastern European communication facilities, Adolf Hitler's military plans are running into trouble, according to information in Cairo today.

Latest reports available through reliable sources who constantly are tapping German information outlets revealed Hitler apparently is unable to complete his dispositions for his projected spring campaigns in the face of physical difficulties and the Soviet successes on the Russian front.

Cut off from Caucasian oil, according to these sources, the Nazis are feverishly over-working the Rumanian crude oil production facilities in the Ploesti fields.

Oil Stringency

British and Allied intelligence authorities have confirmed their data regarding the Reichswehr's oil stringency through orders bearing on the subject and captured in operations against the Nazi Africa Corps in Libya.

Furthermore, the Russians have given Hitler no time to stabilize lines behind which he could organize the huge supplies necessary for a possible reopening of the Russian campaign in the spring, according to this information.

Even the Nazis are said to admit they cannot take more than 10,000,000 tons of oil a year from the Rumanian fields. At present they are believed to be working these fields at the rate of about 7,000,000 tons. But southeastern Europe's rail facilities are inadequate to handle this total, and part of the Danube river is blocked by winter ice.

Thus the exposed crude oil stored at the Ploesti fields offers a rich aerial target.

Bases In Greece

Meanwhile, the Nazis have made vast base preparations in Greece and Crete for eventual moves and have distributed many troops over the Greek islands.

But so far, according to these sources, they have been unable to reinforce or support these dispositions to the extent considered necessary for an attack.

Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop's demand for Hungarian troops was interpreted as supporting belief Hitler must stabilize his Axis partners to permit a number of German divisions to be removed, rested, reorganized and redispensed.

RAP THE JAPS IS NEW GAME

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Jan. 14.—Raps at the Japs were so hot and fast today at a Detroit flower shop where 100 Nipponese-made vases were being knocked down by the first bidders.

The owner, Josephine Graeme Weatherall, furnished the vases, a hammer and allowed customers and passerby to break a vase for any amount they offered.

Especially delighted were three young customers, ranging in age from eight to 11, after paying their pennies to break the vases, they asked:

"And how much to smash the store windows?"

The war stopped there.

Avoiding the common cold aids in preventing pneumonia.

Persons susceptible to colds should be extremely careful.

Avoiding fatigue is an important factor in preventing colds.

This does not apply particularly to the day's work.

It is what one does after the day's work that counts.

Fatigue favors infection.

Colds are spread from one individual to another.

When the common cold appears rest in bed is the best plan.

Most persons do not care to stop work because of a cold.

Some get well and others get pneumonia.

Prosecutions In Lottery Ring

Printers Testify On Printing Of "Win" Sheets—Eight-State Combine Alleged

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14.—The government prepared to build its lottery ring prosecution today on a foundation of testimony provided by state troopers and commercial printers who were important witnesses against 62 alleged members of the eight-state combine.

John P. Helfenstein, state motor policeman, described details of his investigation of the $100,000 lottery activities, relating that Joseph Ginsburg, of Pittsburgh, tried to destroy one bit of evidence, a telegram, by throwing it into a sewer.

The telegram, he testified, contained U. S. Treasury figures for June 27, 1940, on which the ring was accused of paying off to lottery players.

Ginsburg is a brother-in-law of Attorney Louis Cohen of Philadelphia and Miami, whom the government charges with being a leader of the baseball-football-numbers ring.

One printed, George E. Platt, of Altoona, told Helfenstein he was printing 20,000 tickets for one lottery and 6,000 for another each week. The trooper testified he said he found the printer at work on the tickets. John L. Pomeroy, a Pittsburgh printer, testified he arranged with Charles Oeffler, Cleveland, to print win sheets and received weekly orders for them. An her Pittsburgh printer, William Venables, told the federal court jury that Joseph Bianco, a defendant, arranged with him to print result sheets for the empire and jackpot lotteries.

War Relief Fund Drive Is Forging Steadily Onward

Reports Are Beginning To Come In From Industries, Swelling Total

FUND IS NEAR $25,000 MARK

With some splendid reports turned in yesterday by several local industries and from the Hillville community, the Lawrence County War Relief Fund campaign again forged steadily and inexorably toward the $40,000 goal assigned by the National Red Cross, and today the fund is around the $25,000 mark, with many districts yet to report.

Lawrence County citizens are remembering Pearl Harbor with their dollars, proof that those who have to sit on the sidelines while others are exacting vengeance justly due to the Axis nations, are willing to bear their share of the burden, even though it is a slight one.

Splendid reports from Ellwood City indicate that the goal there is near attainment while other communities are establishing splendid records. When the final tally is made, there is little doubt but that the county will reach its goal.

In the meantime, the nation is responding just as splendidly, scarcely a day passing that some city or community does not exceed the goal set for it.

Chairman Walter W. Duff today expressed satisfaction over the way the campaign is going forward, but urges workers to get their districts covered and turn in their reports as quickly as possible.

Twenty-Five Papers In State Raise Selling Price

HARRISBURG, Jan. 14.—Subscription rates have been raised by 25 Pennsylvania daily newspapers in the past year—most of them in the last few weeks—to meet operating expenses, William N. Hardy, manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association, reported today.

The cost of war coverage service, higher payrolls and heavier taxes forced the papers to increase prices, Hardy said.

He added that newspaper which raised their rates since October 1 suffered no loss of circulation to speak of, and in some cities the gains had exceeded the few losses.

This is an indication, he asserted that the public depends upon its newspapers for complete and accurate war news. There are more than 100 dailies in Pennsylvania.

Fighters Await Gong In Arena

Leasure Battles Miller And
Baxter Fights Freddie
Lester Tonight

FRANKIE CORDY OPPOSES WARGO

Folk who are inclined have an opportunity tonight in The Arena to see civilian youths of today, soldiers of tomorrow, in fist combat. Sixteen of them, including two Diamond Belt champions and the Lawrence county middleweight crownholder, meet in eight bouts, the first of which will begin promptly at 8:30 p. m.

Most of the boys who will toss leather encased fists are in the 20 year old bracket and some will register soon and likely join the colors as have others who either fought or had supervisory roles in the affairs of the Jefferson Athletic club.

The champs who will strut their pugilistic talent are Nick Wargo, 190-pound Diamond Belt champion. He is one of the most experienced amateur "glovesmen" in western Pennsylvania; Freddie Miller, the Diamond Belt middleweight "king"; and Russell Baxter, A. A. U. 160-pound champion of Lawrence county.

Baxter is doctored to fight Freddie Lester, of Pittsburgh, who will be having his initial evening's evening here, and Les Leasure, a rugged two-fist slugger, will take on Miller, while Frankie Cordy, a "k. o." artist, of Niles, will stack up against the experienced Wargo.

Horne, Baby Face on Card

Billy Reale, of Castlewood, and George Hawkins, of Pittsburgh, are scheduled for a 175-pound duel, and with punches flying from all directions, anything is likely to happen. Billy is tough, and if Hawkins is equally as tough it is going to be a war of a fight.

Rollin Horne, willing battler, of Niles, opposes Bobby Burton, of Pittsburgh, at 135. Billy Shelton opposes the classy Balv Face Leasure, of this city, at 133. Al Leasure, this city, will box Ed O'Leary, of Youngstown, at 130. And Billy Carr, of Niles, and Billy Kennedy, of Youngstown, will open the show.

All service men in uniform are invited to attend the show free.

The Pennsylvania athletic commission and amateur athletic union have approved the show.

JIMMY BIVINS DEFEATS SOOSE IN 10 ROUNDS

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Jan. 14.—Jimmy Bivins basked today in the warm spotlight of a contending position for a shot at the light-heavyweight crown of Gus Lesnevich with a clear cut victory in ten rounds over former middleweight Champion Billy Soose of the classic features and fancy left hand.

Entering the ring an 8 to 5 underdog, Bivins got away fast in the first four rounds, pounding the Farrell, Pa., boy's chops with looping rights and sharp lefts.

Soose copped the fifth round by a hair but Bivins recovered quickly and took the sixth and seventh rounds. The Cleveland News slash-ed Billy's left eye in the seventh but the ex-Penn State collegian came back to take the eighth. Bivins punched out a shade in the ninth and Soose closed fast to win the windup round.

It was easily Bivins' best fight in recent months for he has been campaigning in the heavyweight ranks and getting a good pasting around. Last night he was back in his weight class at 178 pounds.

Promoters Ben Goetz and Bob Brickman said they would start talking terms with the handlers of Lesnevich for a title fight for Bivins.

WYATT COOL

Whitlow Wyatt is one of the coolest, calmest and most deliberate pitchers in the game. In one of those stretch duels with St. Louis, Wyatt had the Cardinal batters jittery with suspense as they waited at the plate while he slowly studied them before pitching. He was the second National leaguer to win 20 games in 1941.

Titans Among Leading Fives

Westminster And Duquesne
Among Top Fives In Collegiate Cage World

Now that basketball has grown out of its rompers, who are the leaders in the annual collegiate dribbling panorama?

The answer can be found in no less than about 12 rah-rah aggregations.

With the popular hardwood sport just commencing to hit its full stride for the campaign, "tis surprising that a small number stand out throughout the nation.

Stranger yet, two of the top clubs are housed right here in western Pennsylvania, separated by a mere 60 miles. By now, you undoubtedly know that we mean Westminster college and Duquesne university.

The perennially strong district clubs are up there again.

Titans Hot Again

Westminster, last season's Pennsylvania's paladin, is on its way to another illustrious record. The Titans have won six out of seven and are doled out with Duquesne for the Pennsylvania lead. Duquesne saw its clean slate smeared by Bradley. The Devils machine, noted as a past master in freezing the ball, lost its poise in the final minutes and dripped a 50-46 count to Bradley, Monday night.

Temple, which has another outstanding aggregation, is another leader in the state. Washington & Jefferson isn't far behind.

Duquesne and Westminster rate a spot with such bigwigs as Colorado, Rice, Long Island, C. C. N. Y., Toledo, Washington State, Washington, Purdue, Illinois and Northwestern.

By the time the buds commence to make their perennial appearance, the list will be thinned down to the size of a used toothpick.

Right now, Westminster and Duquesne are upholding this section.

FAIR OR FOUL By LAWTON CARVER INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Ben Hogan and Sam Snead are as alike as the proverbial two peas in a bucket of peas in some respects, but in others as different as a couple of genies in the same profession can be. Look at the headlines on golf out of Los Angeles today and you'll get the point. Whatever the big black type may say in actual words, behind it will be proof of what I am talking about. Hogan rapidly is building himself into a place among the all-time greats of the fairways, and Snead, seems bent upon maintaining his place as the duffer's hero.

They are much alike in their cool, methodical manner, in their position in link lore as two of the long-stroke drivers ever to smack a golf ball and in the duly recognized fact that on any given round either is likely to tear a course apart. From that point on they differ so widely that there is scarcely a comparison. The headlines tell the story.

Hogan met Jim Thomson Tuesday in a playoff for the Los Angeles $10,000 open. Snead was back among the also rans after blowing a fine winning chance with a home hole eight Monday. That's the way he blew the national open in 1939, an incident I witnessed and thought could never happen again to him, or anybody in top flight competition.

Hogan Is Steady

That wouldn't happen to Hogan under similar circumstances, for in the clutch, such as having a chance to win and being confronted by a shot he would take, which is terrific, and he would play the shot just as though it were part of a week-end round. Great golfers don't shoot under the pressure is off, and Hogan never lets the pressure get him.

He hit his absolute peak in 1938, when he set an all-time money-winning record with $19,534 in the purses he gathered in. Right after that his colleagues and the experts almost unanimously established him as the No. 1 threat in every major tournament until his repeated failures and occasional hay-wire playing in the pinch caused them to relegate him to the background.

Hogan has succeeded him as the man to beat in every start and won't relinquish that place regardless of how his match with Thomson for the Los Angeles top prize may go.

But for cancellation of the national open this year he would undoubtedly be the hot favorite in that event and you won't find any links-wise betters wagering against him on the winter circuit. His record speaks for itself.

The Professional Golfers Association revealed Monday that Hogan was the No. 1 man in shot-making last year. For 101 rounds of tournament play he averaged 70.28 shots per round. Snead ranked second, just a fraction back, but always carried that burden of undependability.

Beyond his shot-making, Hogan's money-winnings for the last two years add to his position as a menace to all the rest. Here are the leading money-winners for the last five years:

1937—Harry Cooper, $14,138.
1938—Sam Snead, $19,534.
1939—Henry Picard, $10,303.
1940—Ben Hogan, $10,655.
1941—Ben Hogan, $17,333.

The foregoing seems to indicate that for consistency Hogan stands alone. What's more he may probably lead again this year to add to the nearly $26,000 he has captured in the last two campaigns.

Yet good as Hogan is, the pro golfers themselves will tell you that there never was a player with a finer swing than Snead's and few with a superior all-around game.

The trouble is, those seven and eight reach up and smack him right between the eyes too often when he gets to going good.

Ben Hogan, Hershey, defeated Jimmy Thompson Del Monte, Calif., by capturing the play-off of the $10,000 Los Angeles open golf championship with a par 72 and a one stroke advantage yesterday at Los Angeles.

American Bombers Doing Good Work On Nazi Plants

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 14 — George Heintz, 34, back from England where he ferried warplanes to operational units of the Royal Air Force, said today that American bombers are "Raising Hell" with German industrial and military objectives.

The success of the American bombers, he added, is helping to raise the morale of the British people still higher.

"The situation in England was well in hand when I left," he said, "and the British are giving full credit to American planes and other help."

Quick Approval For Naval Supply Bill Is Expected

By GRIFFING BANCROFT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—Hung up on "certain stubborn controversial points" in the administration's $9,000,000,000 tax program, congressional leaders paved the way for speedy passage of the first appropriation bills to finance America's war effort.

Secretary of the Navy Knox in a secret appearance before the house appropriations committee, warned members that this country faces a possible long war, and urged quick approval of the regular navy supply bill for the fiscal year starting next June 1.

This measure, which probably will be the first of the big defense bills to be presented through congress, calls for more than $6,000,000,000, of which $2,725,000,000 is for new fighting ships and $1,000,000,000 for naval aviation.

Rep. Cannon (D) Mo., appropriations chairman, said that bills from his committee providing for other governmental agencies will be on the floor in about 10 days, and added he was hopeful the navy measure would follow soon after. The president, in his budget message, asked for total appropriations of $59,000,000,000.

See Huge Tax Bill Delay

The other side of the picture legislative fiscal leaders predicted it will be some six months before the huge tax program is written into law.

Sen. George (D) Ga., chairman of the senate finance committee, however, said that leaders have agreed to start work just as soon as possible, perhaps in a week on the $7,000,000,000 general revenue measure, leaving the bill to raise social security income by $2,000,000,000 for a later date.

George said he and other tax leaders would hold further conferences with treasury officials to work out the broad outline of the bill before actual committee work starts.

"We are trying to eliminate certain stubborn controversial points," he declared.

"While the conferences are secret, it is known that the treasury contemplates a bill which would include a withholding tax on the nation's income; greatly increased and broadened excise or "hidden" levies on special commodities, and steeper corporation and excess profits imposts.

There is continually growing sentiment for a general sales tax to raise at least part of the total, but members said to date the treasury has not recommended it.

May Provide Shorter Terms In High Schools

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 14—Tele-scouting of senior high school terms from three years to two until after the war today met the approval of Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis B. Haas.

The state official said he plans to examine existing laws to determine whether he has authority to eliminate one year by introducing summer semesters and increasing daily school hours, as proposed by Philadelphia public school officials.

In event he lacks the authority to make the change, Dr. Haas will ask Gov. Arthur H. James to include enabling legislation in any call for a special session of the general assembly to be held soon.

"I favor adapting any length of high school course to meet any need of defense but I'm not sure it can be done without legislation," Dr. Haas said. "Any change in the law that is required will be a matter for the legislature."

The plan, which would affect approximately 60 high schools in cities, would enable students to leave school a year earlier to accept defense jobs, to enter military service and engage in other types of government emergency work.
